Fair housing reversal hit

4-3-74

Flora Gilford, coordinator for Black Women Organized for Action (BWOA), is protesting the 8-3 vote of the Board of Supervisors in opposition to Supervisor Quentin Kopp's resolution to prohibit discrimination by San Francisco landlords against families with children.

"Many of our members testified and wrote letters to the Board urging their affirmative consideration of Supervisor Kopp's resolution," Ms. Gilford said, "and we were appalled to learn that the ordinance had been defeated, with the opposition led by some of the people from whom we expected understanding and support.

"Our organization will be working to reverse the decision, and, if necessary to elect new Board members more committed to meeting the needs of people without adequate shelter," Ms. Gilford concluded.

Ordinance passed?
